

WHAT MATTERS MOST?

At Thrive Interiors and Design, we remain hopeful and optimistic during this unprecedented time. We've been asking ourselves, 'what matters most?' The near-unanimous response is a combination of friends, family and time together. Missing the rhythms of community, we long to host gatherings at our table. It is here that we embrace one another, sit together, laugh together, talk over one another and complain about who will do the dishes. OUR PEOPLE matter most. We are proud and grateful for our team, customers, and community and will continue our commitment to retaining our staff while making everyone's health our number one priority.

Only one year ago, we embarked on a mission of reopening and rebranding with new dreams and visions of how our little shop would grow. We are happy to announce that despite this pandemic, we are holding strong and are eager to celebrate our one year anniversary with you. Though lacking our anticipated fanfare to celebrate, we are excited to share our new website and a web-based $1500 SHOPPING SPREE GIVEAWAY.

During this time we have made a significant investment to upgrade our website and online shopping experience to provide you with curated product collections we love. We will also be launching our Weekly Home Inspo on Instagram to share design trends and new arrivals to our shop.

Both of these updates will allow us to better serve our customers remotely, while we wait for the future we are hoping to return to soon. A future full of inviting, inspiring, and healthy homes to share with one another.

Stay Healthy and Strong,

Wendy & the Thrive Interiors Team
