ISLAND WILDFLOWERS · FLEURS SAUVAGES DE L'ISLE ·

Musk mallow
Malva moschata/Musk mallow

Musk mallow grows at the edges of fields, along roads and in the island's meadows. It used to be grown as a household plant and was touted it as a means of tempering passions, soothing stomach complaints and keeping the mind free. Its name stems from the Latin mal va, which in French sounds like "evil, begone!," revealing its virtues!

Uses and benefits:
In an infusion (leaves and flowers), cream, compress or ointment, musk mallow is used for its rich mucilage content, which is an emollient most helpful for calming inflammation of the respiratory tract, gastric and urinary tract, as well as the skin and eyes.

BODY CARE PRODUCTS – LE 1603

FACE OR BODY CREAM: The petals are soothing, soft, restorative and regenerative for the face and body.

SOAP BAR: For gentle daily purification and cleansing of fine facial skin.

White Sweet Clover
Melilotus albus/White Sweet Clover

White sweet clover, also called white melilot, is considered a melliferous plant, meaning a source of nectar for bees. It has rather small flowers for such a long stem, but how sweet they smell! It's the favourite fragrance of women in the bloom of life. The white flowers give them lightness, while the woody, vanilla notes enhance their sensuality. In summer, you can catch whiffs of an almost-sweet vanilla-like scent in the air as the flowers follow the path of the sun across the sky. In ancient times, it was believed that this plant had the power to calm neuralgia, nervous excitement and insomnia.

Uses and benefits:
In an infusion, cream, ointment, mist or sachet, treat your mind and body to the calmness, softness and soothing of this sweetly scented island-grown "vanilla."

BODY CARE PRODUCTS – LE 1603

FACE OR BODY CREAM: Soft and soothing for the skin.

FLORAL WATER: Spray on your pillow, face and body, your clothes, bed linens and into the air.

SOAP BAR: For gentle daily purification and cleansing of fine facial skin.

FLOWER SACHET: Breathe deeply of your sachet as needed. Place it in a drawer, on your pillow in the morning or on your night table.